Commentary

In August the NAV (total return, sterling adjusted) was down 5.4% compared to the MSCI World Health Care Index (total return, sterling adjusted) which was down 3.0%.

Extreme volatility came back as fears over credit and default swept across global markets. Healthcare proved to be partially defensive. Fund underperformance did not come primarily from any one sub-sector but rather from a variety of sources. Biotech was a net negative contributor, in large part due to some outsized downward moves of a few stocks. Weakness in Japan had no offset. Large cap pharmaceuticals were the largest source of positive alpha, given our underweight stance on the group offset with some strategic individual over-weights that performed well. Bristol-Myers Squibb was the top contributor. This was in large part due to the presentation of data for the company's critical pipeline asset Eliquis at the European Society of Cardiology meeting. The molecule was shown to have superior efficacy and safety to the current gold standard treatment for stroke prevention. Eliquis has multi-billion dollar sales potential. Another key contributor was Pharmasset. Momentum continues to build around the company's pipeline in hepatitis C, it is best positioned among the next generation therapies for this viral disease. The largest detractor was Human Genome Sciences. Slow launch for the company's novel therapeutic for lupus pressured the share price. The stock fell nearly 40% in sympathy when another company with a new product launch reported disappointing sales. Finally, exposure to the Far East hurt relative performance, including stocks in both Japan and China.

Important Information

Worldwide Healthcare Trust PLC (the "Company") is a UK investment trust listed on the London Stock Exchange and is a member of the Association of Investment Companies. As this Company may implement a gearing policy investors should be aware that the share price movement may be more volatile than movements in the price of underlying investments. Past performance is not a guide to future performance. The value of investments and the income from them may fall as well as rise and is not guaranteed. An investor may not get back the original amount invested. Changes in the rates of exchange between currencies may cause the value of investments to fluctuate. Fluctuation may be particularly marked in the case of a higher volatility fund and the value of an investment may fall suddenly and substantially. Shares in the biotechnology sector can prove volatile and above average price movements can be expected. There can be no assurance that the Company's investment objective will be achieved and investment results may vary substantially over time. This document is for information purposes only and does not constitute an offer or invitation to purchase shares in the Company and has not been prepared in connection with any such offer or invitation. Investment Trust share prices may not fully reflect underlying net asset values. There may be a difference between the prices at which you may purchase ("the offer price") or sell ("the bid price") a share on the stock market which is known as "bid-offer" or "dealing" spread. This is set by the market makers and varies from share to share. This spread typically averages 1-2% each way on the mid-market price (the price halfway between the bid and offer prices), and can fluctuate and at times be higher than average. Net Asset Value per share is calculated in accordance with the guidelines of the Association of Investment Companies in that income received by the Company in the period since the last annual accounts is excluded. Total net assets are stated inclusive of income received. Any opinions on individual stocks are those of the Company's Investment Manager and no reliance should be given on any such views. Any research in this document has been procured and may have been acted upon by OrbiMed Capital LLC for its own purposes. The results are being made available to you only incidentally.
