Commentary

In September the NAV (total return, sterling adjusted) was down 0.8% compared to the MSCI World Health Care Index (total return, sterling adjusted) which was down 1.1%.

Market volatility continued with uncertainty hanging over global financial markets. Healthcare proved to be importantly defensive during this broad market tumult. The top contributor in the month comes from Japan in the form of Mitsubishi Tanabe Pharma, it gained more than 10% on regulatory approval for two drugs for the treatment of hepatitis and multiple sclerosis. Momentum has decidedly turned in favor of Bristol-Myers Squibb after it presented positive data for a high profile cardiovascular drug in late stage development. Multiple broker upgrades followed and the increased visibility of their hepatitis pipeline sent the stock to new highs. Another key contributor was Pharmasset, thanks to its best-in-class pipeline for hepatitis and emerging speculation of a take-out. Overweight positions in large cap pharmaceuticals, such as Novartis and Roche, were negative yet the fund remains underweight large cap pharma in general, which helped relative returns. Other sources of negative contribution included Life Science Tools (such as Pacific Biosciences of California which announced a corporate restructuring), Specialty Pharmaceuticals (such as Warner Chilcott which has concerns over generic competition), and Managed Health Care (including Aetna and Express Scripts).

Important Information

Worldwide Healthcare Trust PLC (the "Company") is a UK investment trust listed on the London Stock Exchange and is a member of the Association of Investment Companies. As this Company may implement a gearing policy investors should be aware that the share price movement may be more volatile than movements in the price of underlying investments. Past performance is not a guide to future performance. The value of investments and the income from them may fall as well as rise and is not guaranteed. An investor may not get back the original amount invested. Changes in the rates of exchange between currencies may cause the value of investments to fluctuate. Fluctuation may be particularly marked in the case of a higher volatility fund and the value of an investment may fall suddenly and substantially. Shares in the biotechnology sector can prove volatile and above average price movements can be expected. There can be no assurance that the Company's investment objective will be achieved and investment results may vary substantially over time. This document is for information purposes only and does not constitute an offer or invitation to purchase shares in the Company and has not been prepared in connection with any such offer or invitation. Investment Trust share prices may not fully reflect underlying net asset values. There may be a difference between the prices at which you may purchase ("the offer price") or sell ("the bid price") a share on the stock market which is known as "bid-offer" or "dealing" spread. This is set by the market makers and varies from share to share. This spread typically averages 1-2% each way on the mid-market price (the price halfway between the bid and offer prices), and can fluctuate and at times be higher than average. Net Asset Value per share is calculated in accordance with the guidelines of the Association of Investment Companies in that income received by the Company in the period since the last annual accounts is excluded. Total net assets are stated inclusive of income received. Any opinions on individual stocks are those of the Company's Investment Manager and no reliance should be given on any such views. Any research in this document has been procured and may have been acted upon by OrbiMed Capital LLC for its own purposes. The results are being made available to you only incidentally.
